BUY YOUR NEXT HOME BEFORE YOU SELL

How move-up buyers write non-contingent offers, move once, and sell on their own timeline.

THE PROBLEM

Your equity is trapped until you sell.

- Contingent offers lose in competitive markets
- Two moves instead of one
- Living through showings with your family at home

THE STRATEGY

Buy first. Then sell.

1. Unlock the equity in your current home
2. Write a non-contingent offer on your next one
3. Move once, on your schedule
4. Sell your old home empty, staged and unhurried

WHY IT WINS

Sellers and listing agents treat non-contingent offers completely differently.

In competitive pockets of the East Bay, removing the home-sale contingency is often the difference between winning and losing the house.

A REAL CLIENT STORY

Business owners. A townhouse to sell. Their dream home showed up first.

- A bank statement loan counted the income they actually earn
- A bridge loan unlocked their townhouse equity for the down payment
- No payments on the bridge for the first 4 months, and time to sell on their own terms

WHAT IT TAKES

Every plan is custom. It starts with two numbers.
